

hello
birds

We view the world from our window.

It is a hodgepodge of brick and concrete

and it is dirty.

From here we see things that would normally go unnoticed, like this pigeon loitering in a doorway

4949
6969

who then strolls around

like a person

and we see other observers observing like this mysterious figure and this one swooping

overhead

and this noisy bird with spinning wings.

But from our distant spot
at the window

we see the Lord of this dirty hodgepodge land

perched majestically on a lamppost.

@dorismccomics

